Learning Means Changing

„The world is at a crossroads. It faces a choice between an existence based on competition and aggression or one based on a transformative peace agenda and common security. (...) Shared security is about people, not just nations.“

„Gemeinsame Sicherheit 2022“, Olof-Palme-Bericht 2.0 vom 14. April 2022.

„I wince at the words 'heroes' and 'war'. Because I know: now people are dying again. It's rarely the big heroes who die, it's more the little people.“

„Krieg: Helden! Helden! Helden!“, Alice Schwarzer zum Weltfrauentag in der „Emma“, 7. März 2022.

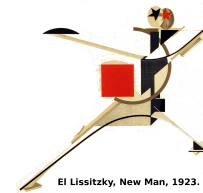

War is the perversion of all civilizational values: mass killing is declared a "success," the well-behaved suffering of social hardship a heroic act, and thoughtfulness a danger.

Armament, the militarization of even language and thought, war does not solve any problem, but is an attack on civilization. An initiative for a ceasefire and a system of common security and development in Europe are needed now to break the spiral of military escalation. The overcoming of social inequality, the preservation of the natural foundations of life, social participation and living culture and science as the foundation of a democracy are urgent tasks of the time. They can only be realized in peace and international cooperation.

We are committed to the social opening of the university for all and the improvement of the social situation of the students, to the critical reappraisal of the history of the university, to the expansion of scientific cooperation including the resumption of student and scientific exchange with Russian students and scientists, to an initiative for the sciences for the United Nations Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons and the realization of the UN Sustainable Development Goals as an essential orientation for study, teaching and research.

„For a world without Nuclear Weapons“

Resolution of the "Engere Fakultät" Phil, June 22, 2022

„The Faculty of Arts and Humanities supports all efforts of science, civil society and the international community for the control, disarmament and global abolition of nuclear weapons, especially the United Nations Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons. For only in a world free of nuclear weapons is the danger of the use of these weapons of mass destruction averted.“

Every step towards nuclear disarmament is a step towards a permanently solidary coexistence on this planet, towards the global realization of common security and development, to which there is no alternative.“
